

NAMJIN LEE

SHARON DUNWOODY AWARD

Namjin Lee is an associate professor in the Department of Communication at the College of Charleston. He teaches courses on such topics as political communication, public opinion in American politics, effects of mass communication and communication research methods. His research concerns the role that political communication plays in our civic and political lives, with a special interest in how the consumption of news content in traditional and new media influences the ways in which people understand political matters, formulate political judgments, and participate in the political process.

NOTABLE CITATIONS

Shah, D., Cho, J., Nah, S., Gotlieb, M., Hwang, H., Lee, N., Scholl, R., McLeod, D. (2007). Campaign ads, online messaging, and participation: Extending the communication mediation model. Journal of Communication, 57:4, 676-703.

Lee, N., Shah, D., McLeod, J. (2013). Processes of political socialization: A communication mediation approach to youth civic engagement, Communication Research, 40:5, 669-697.

Lee, N., McLeod, D., Shah, D. (2008). Framing policy debates: Issue dualism, journalistic frames, and opinions on controversial policy issues, Communication Research, 35:5, 695-718.

NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENTS

2020: Recognized for 10 years of service at College of Charleston

Contributor to books including Handbook of Research on Civic Engagement in Youth (2010) and SAGE Handbook on Media Processes and Effects (2009)

School of Journalism and Mass Communication
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON